About KHU

Kharazmi University (Formerly called Tarbiat Moallem University) is the First Higher Education Institute in Iran and the first Teacher Training Institution for Primary Schools in Iran that was established as Darol-Mo'allemin Markazi (Central House of Teachers) in the building of the Culture Ministry in Takht-e-Zomorod area of Tehran in 1919. With the increase in the number of schools in Iran and the increasing need for trained teachers, Darol-Mo'allemin Markazi was developed into Darol-Mo'allemin A'li (Higher House of Teachers) at the Higher Council for Sciences in October 1926. In December 1927, the Iranian Parliament passed a law to modify the statute of the latter institution to support it further and help employ its graduates nationwide.

In 1990, all the higher education institutions affiliated with or established by Teacher Training University were separated from and granted independence by the Council for the Expansion of Higher Education at the Ministry of Higher Education. The university declared by the new name “Kharazmi University” in January 2012, for further expand and strengthen the educational and research activities. According to the decision made on 15.03.2015 at the Council for the Expansion of Higher Education at the Ministry of Science, Research and Technology, University of Economic Sciences (UES) was merged with Kharazmi University.
